With a national program of trials for a new cereal herbicide, Infinity® Ultra, anticipated to be launched in 2023, and extension trials now underway for our recently launched herbicide, Mateno® Complete, this year's field trials will be showcasing a range of products in local agronomic situations across the country. Many fungicide and TruFlex® canola trials will also be available for agronomists and growers to view.

To visit a broadacre winter trial near you contact your local Bayer Market Development agronomist.
